

A Way of Healing

Message from our Divine Mother, in the voice of Christ.

Received by Sebastian Blaksley on April 15, 2023

My love. If you have made it this far, it is a sign that you are ready to accept that you are a healer and carry on that role. Healing is living in the Truth and extending the love that you are. We cannot define it any other way, because fulfillment means living in perfect harmony – and therefore in union – with your being. Indeed, all disharmony, whatever form it takes, finds its cause in a lack of love, and therefore in an absence of being.

You may be wondering what all this means. Let me answer you. Once you have walked the path of enlightenment of consciousness and have completed it, which all who receive these words have done perfectly, you begin to occupy a sacred place as a link of light in the chain of atonement. This means that, after having reached the state of knowledge of what you are, your being is impelled to share itself. Remember that everything that is given to you by God, you receive to give. You cannot withhold it, since receiving and giving are one unit.

In order to be ready to fulfill your role as a healer, we will now establish the guidelines that you need to remember and follow in order to co-create together a path that shapes it. That is, that it is carried out in humanity.

You've been waiting your whole life to get to this point on the road. The moment you allow the healing power of your heart to expand without limits of any kind. Naturally, that includes the fact of giving it existence in the physical or phenomenological world. We no longer let the healing force of our union remain hidden in the silence of the unmanifested, but from now on we allow its beauty to become a song.

Truly I tell you that the melodies that will make up this new song of beautiful love, which is this path of healing, will illuminate the Earth more. And also Heaven, since from now on, everything you bind in time will be bound in eternity, and what you unleash in it too.

Just as a universal belief cannot be established, but it is possible and also desirable to create a universal experience of love, the same happens with healing paths. They are as many as there are beings. And I assure you that this is not hyperbole, but the simple truth. Here one will be established in particular, not to override others or compare it with them. But so that a new light is turned on in the midst of the dark night that humanity is going through, and with it many of our brothers and sisters in Christ.

The times of the final healing of humanity have begun. For this reason it is possible to observe that there is more awareness of the need to heal, and more desire to follow paths that help to cure the pain that exists in the human soul. Suffering has reached its zenith, and from here it will not go away. Now a time of healing will begin, until all human pain is removed from the heart of each one of my daughters and sons. You who receive these words, have been chosen in the design to contribute to the universal consciousness so that what is said here is carried out perfectly. It is part of God's plan, which includes you.

You would not want to leave the world of time without first extending the healing power of your heart, which comes from our divine union. It is for that reason that you are given this path, which we co-created together. No doubt there are many others. We do not judge any. But we walk, and we invite you to walk, this one that is revealed here and is in perfect harmony with who you are. And also with what is each sister and brother who joins her over time.

What does this new path consist of? It consists of healing through the Christ in you, just as I did in the days when he walked the Earth. In other words, you will heal through who you are. Indeed, all healing finds its source in what is revealed here, since only love is the source of all healing. Of course, the way in which it manifests itself takes many forms. This is because it is necessary for each one an approach that serves the purpose established. There are some ways that are more mental than others, as well as others that are more or less emotional, and even with a greater or lesser degree of spirituality, depending on each one's way of understanding.

It is true that, at the level of form, there can be as many expressions of healing as you cannot imagine. Yet through them always flows the same and only source of all healing. This restorative force is part - so to speak - of the power of the resurrection light, which in turn is one of the expressions of the infinite power of love. In short, there are no limitations when it comes to shaping the healing power of love. Even so, here we give you one, as a manifestation of the unity that exists between expression and being. Remember that the being is known in the expression. This is why: You know you are healed when you begin to consciously heal others.

I did not heal the sick when I walked through the lands of Jerusalem and its surroundings, only to demonstrate a power that comes from Heaven. I did it because it was my function as love that I am. The same happens with you. All who live in the truth are healers. All those who remain united to Christ are also united. They can make their healing ability manifest in a certain way or not. This is not essential, since even if they choose not to spread healing through a specific path, they do it with their mere presence.

Let us say it clearly. There is the possibility of being a healer without performing specific human actions, tending to heal others. Indeed, that is the path that many walk, being in harmony with their being. However, the call that is made to you here is to go through the world healing wounds, illuminating minds, restoring bodies and reuniting souls with the source of endless life. In other words, fulfill a visible and demonstrable function as a healer.

Each form of expression of the power of healing constitutes a link in the chain of universal atonement. There are other links, which are not a form of healing per se, although they also heal. Such is the case, for example, of every act of love given and received. Now we will delve into the specific form that is advocated here and I invite you to explore.

What means are to be used by healers who heal through the living Christ that they are in truth? Silence, blessing, spiritual reading, and sharing in a group or individually. All this, gathered in a totality. We will now talk about each of these elements that make up what we will call here “resurrection encounters”.

It will be through these encounters that you will heal others. I will be present in each of them. Heaven will be with me all, together with the true creation. The power of our union, in unity with those who join us, will set in motion the healing power that comes from the resurrection. In other words, from the consciousness of eternal life in which you live forever united to my divine reality.

The time dedicated to silence will not extend beyond what the Spirit of wisdom that lives in you indicates. In this sense, it is important that you remember that not all your brothers and sisters, nor you, are in the same conditions to allow silence to open them to the same extent. Not everyone heals by the same means. Therefore, there will be those who are called to remain in silent contemplation throughout the session, while others are not. Let no one be forced to go beyond what his heart tells him! We do not advocate a path of rigidity, but one of joy, ease, spaciousness, and lasting peace.

Let me remind you of the following about contemplative prayer. If while immersed in the silence, you feel anxiety, or the desire to get out of it, that is the moment in which you are invited to continue for one, two, or no more than three minutes. If the resistance still persists, then the time has come to end your union of contemplation in that form. In the meetings, each one will go waiting for her brother or sister to kindly come out of silence, if that were necessary.

We have said that the blessing will be an integral part of this new path of healing that we bring to the plane of form here. We will expand this topic. To bless means to extend blessed words. This means that you communicate in harmony with being. In other words, you use communication to heal, praise and enlighten.

Blessings have the power to extend miracles. They are healing vehicles. The energy that carries each word expressed out loud - or in silence - to bless, has the power to heal hearts, minds and bodies. This is because every blessing that comes out of your mouth, regardless of whether it is pronounced or not - or expressed with a gesture - is attached to my divine being. I myself take it in my hands. Because of this, it becomes a perfect means to extend the healing power of the resurrection.

About spiritual reading, we will say the following. Every time you connect with the inspired word, the memory of God is activated in your humanity. The soul knows whose voice it is listening to. Therefore, you do not need to be told where what you hear comes from, that is, what is its source. Whether they are inspired or not, she will perfectly know how to distinguish the origin of one and the other.

The activation of the memory of God has the power to heal the spiritual memory, realigning the mind and heart with the wisdom of Heaven. In turn, this allows all other aspects of your humanity to be imbibed by the life force that comes from the source of being. Just like a newborn girl who is in the cradle calms her fear and anxiety when she hears her mother's voice, in the same way the soul does when it hears the voice of love. That peace that the heart feels when listening to its divine source has the power to heal all trauma, all wounds, all pain.

Beloved pencil in the hands of love, the world has been given - through the writings you receive - a revelation whose breadth and depth constitute the perfect spiritual reading instrument for every resurrection encounter. Let it be used in them!

Although the revelation is non-transferable, by participating in the reading of the works that have been given to you, in union and relationship, the consciousness of unity is activated. By this it is meant that the revealing power of the spirit of wisdom will be manifested through the participating brothers and sisters. Remember that those who join them are attracted by the invisible thread of my divine love.

There is a very important reason why the voice of wisdom will be manifested in each heart present in the resurrection meetings: to experience that the voice of God speaks in everyone without the need for intermediaries. Put simply, it serves the purpose of anchoring human consciousness in direct relationship with God. It also helps to remember that the time of teachers has ended. It will be an experience of healing love received through the beauty of the word that descends from Heaven, that is, the wisdom of Christ.
